FVWC Restoration Field Technician 2018

FVWC is hiring two restoration field technicians for fall 2018.

The Restoration Field Technician will work as part of a crew, under the supervision of Fraser Valley Watersheds Coalition (FVWC) and alongside community volunteers. They will be assisting with:

- Maintaining restoration sites and projects including invasive species control and replanting.
- Assisting with stream restoration activities (including bio-engineering);
- Assisting with outreach events, engaging youth volunteers, and promoting conservation values to the community.
- Attending community events to promote FVWC projects, environmental sustainability & healthy watersheds.
- Conducting fish and water quality monitoring throughout the waterways across the Fraser Valley.

This entry-level position is a great opportunity to gain experience in the conservation field.

Required skills:

- Physically fit and comfortable working outside in all weather conditions.
- Keen interest in local conservation issues.
- An understanding of local watershed challenges in the eastern Fraser Valley.
- Proficient knowledge and identification of Native flora and fauna.
- Excellent verbal and written communications skills
- Must have access to a reliable vehicle, as the work will take place around the Fraser Valley (Chilliwack, Abbotsford and Mission). The technician will be responsible for their own transportation to and from the daily meeting locations in each community.
- Must be willing to work a flexible schedule (which can include evenings and weekends) to coincide with public events.

Additional qualifications that will be considered an asset:

- Field work experience; including monitoring methods, bioengineering methods, kayaking/ canoeing experience
